

TOEFL 口语 Task 1 评分报告: TP010 口语 Task1

题目内容

#1 Some people prefer to get information from books. Others prefer using a computer to access information via the Internet. Which do you prefer? Explain why.

你的回答

i prefer get information from the internet because the internet has a comprehensive information and i can get a variable accessible to the different parts so it's very impressive and convenient for me to get access to the information

AI 参考答案

I strongly prefer using the internet to access information for two main reasons. First, it offers unparalleled immediacy and breadth. For instance, when researching current events like climate change, I can instantly access the latest scientific reports, news articles, and expert analyses from global sources, whereas books on the same topic might be outdated by publication time. Second, digital tools enhance comprehension. I can watch explanatory videos, interact with data visualizations, or even join online forums to discuss complex topics, which creates a more dynamic and engaging learning experience than static text alone. This combination of real-time updates and multimedia resources makes the internet my definitive choice.

问题与建议

☐ 问题: ['Lack of development and specific examples', 'Grammatical errors and awkward phrasing', 'Insufficient explanation of preference']

☐ 建议: The response fails to meet TOEFL criteria in several areas. First, it lacks development: while the student states a preference for the internet, they provide only vague reasons ('comprehensive information,' 'variable accessible,' 'impressive and convenient') without specific examples or elaboration. Second, there are grammatical errors ('prefer get' should be 'prefer getting' or 'prefer to get'; 'a comprehensive information' should be 'comprehensive information'; 'a variable accessible' is awkward). Third, the explanation is insufficient for a high score; TOEFL requires clear, well-supported reasoning with concrete details. The response is too brief and lacks the structure (opinion + reasons + examples) expected for a high-scoring answer.
