Prompt

The woman expresses her opinion of the university's plan, describe her opinion and her reasons for holding that opinion.

Reading

Cafe to be Built in Library The university has decided to build a cafe in the basement of the library. The reason given for this new development is that university officials believe students will enjoy the convenience of being able to eat without having to leave the library. Students have often complained that their studies are disrupted because they must leave the library whenever they want to eat. Officials also believe that it will help make library study more productive if students have the opportunity to take short breaks in the cafe while they're working Sincerely, Justin Ruben

Listening Transcript

now listen to two students discussing the article in the newspaper i don't like the university's plan really why not well even though we won't have to leave the library that's just the problem nobody's going to feel like walking all the way over to the cafeteria especially when the weather's bad they'll just run down to the basement to eat i don't understand isn't that a good thing no because in the library they're just going to serve a bunch of unhealthy snacks sandwiches and sweets and soda so students will just eat junk at least the cafeteria has some healthy food okay i see what you mean yeah i probably wouldn't walk over to the cafeteria either and i think they're wrong about another thing if i'm in the library and i know my friends are down in the basement chatting i'm going to be tempted to go down there and hang out with them you know what i mean i'm sure i'm not the only one who'd be tempted to go down there and chat how's anybody going to concentrate on doing actual work yeah good point this whole thing might backfire the woman expresses her opinion of the university's plan describe her opinion and her reasons for holding that opinion

在尽量保留你原意的基础上，优化表达、逻辑与语言准确性。

The woman disagrees with the university's plan to build a cafe in the library basement. While the reading states it offers convenience and productive breaks, she argues it will have negative effects. First, the cafe will likely serve unhealthy snacks, leading students to choose junk food over the cafeteria's healthier options. Second, it will create social distractions, as students will be tempted to chat with friends in the basement instead of studying. Thus, she believes the plan could backfire by harming both diet and concentration.

参考答案

参考答案1

The university plans to build a cafe in the library basement to provide convenient food access and enhance study productivity by allowing short breaks. However, the woman strongly disagrees with this proposal. Her first reason is that the cafe will likely offer only unhealthy snacks like sandwiches, sweets, and soda. Since students won't want to leave the library, especially in bad weather, they'll opt for these junk foods instead of walking to the cafeteria for healthier meals. Secondly, she argues that the cafe could become a social hub, tempting students to chat with friends rather than focus on their work, ultimately reducing concentration and productivity in the library.

参考答案2

According to the reading, the university intends to construct a cafe in the library's basement to address student complaints about leaving for meals and to boost productivity through brief breaks. In contrast, the female student opposes this plan. She believes it will lead to poor dietary choices because the cafe will serve unhealthy items, making students less inclined to visit the cafeteria for nutritious options. Additionally, she is concerned that the cafe will distract students; knowing friends are socializing there might lure them away from studying, undermining the library's purpose. Thus, she feels the plan could backfire by harming both health and academic focus.
